Easter Sunday

“Passover and Easter have the same message, namely hope ... Really, what we’re celebrating in both is that evil and darkness and death and oppression and slavery don’t have the last word. Goodness, light, renewal, mercy, grace, life have the last word. God triumphs over all evils.

We Serve

Thank you to MacKenzie and Duncan Blydenburgh, Brandon Bailey, and John Blydenburgh for working on the leaves in the back yard this past week, and to Dana Robichaud for the loan of his trailer. Thank you to Gail DeMarsh who coordinated the liturgical ministries and held practices for the Triduum, to Judy Rozell who spent hours “behind the scenes” preparing (and finding!) everything needed for the rituals, to all who created and/or delivered the Easter Baskets to our homebound, and the Shari Blydenburgh who did the final wrapping. Literally, more than 50 people performed a role in the Triduum: from decorating the church three different times to cleaning the church four times to proclaiming God’s Word to being in processions to practicing/leading the music to turning lights on and off, to lighting fires, to ironing, to hanging the Easter Banner, to leading the worship in song, to our wonderful presider, FATHER COX.

When we think about the time given and the alms given, enough could never be said about the generosity of the Community of Saint Cecilia.
It is really astounding.
